Not illustrated. 1853 Excerpt: .War slew as many of our people at home as it did of Mexicans abroad. This is mentioned lest the enemies of Education free of cost may cite the increase of crime while Education is advancing, as evidence that it does not prevent crime. It will be seen that the causes given for this increase are amply adequate to account for it, leaving no excuse for skepticism. Another cause was the increase of Intemperance, consequent upon the same military excitement, and the flagging of Temperance effort. A third cause-has been the very large increase of immigration, which has thrown among us multitudes of foreign poor, many of whom have speedily found their way into crime for the relief of the most urgent necessities, for which our society does not provide. The immigration to New York has been as follows: 1846,115,230; 1847, 166,110; 1849, 191,909; 1850, 212,796;...
